Margaritas Serves Up Authentic Mexican Atmospheres

If Tio Juan's Margaritas Mexican Restaurant is about serving authentically delicious Mexican food and drinks, then Tiger Hartman, the company's Construction Manager, is all about creating authentic Mexican atmospheres.

Characterized by colorful carvings, artwork and furnishings handcrafted by talented artists from little villages surrounding Guadalajara, each Margaritas location creates a feeling of being 2,000 miles to the south.

For the building materials to help achieve the fiesta look in the company's 22 restaurants and franchises, Margaritas has relied on Rand Lumber for many years. From inside beams to outside pergolas, Rand materials have blended perfectly with the inviting and exciting atmosphere of each restaurant.

Inside the newest restaurant, which opened in November, 2010 in Framingham, Mass., we supplied one-inch by eight-inch rough cut pine that Hartman used to create posts and shelves for wait stations and accent walls.

Above: While no two Margaritas Restaurants are identical, each site offers a fun and inviting environment close to home. Right Side: The entrance to the new Margaritas Restaurant in Framingham features massive Douglas fir beams, terra cotta tiles, and tongue-and-groove pine boards.

We also supplied the beams that are seen upon entering the restaurant, a massive 16-foot-wide sloped entryway is supported by 14-foot and nine-foot Douglas fir beams. A covered roof features terra cotta tiles that have been cemented in place to be fully watertight. Our tongue-and-groove pine boards provide a smooth, finished look for the ceiling of the entrance.

ATTENTION BUILDERS & HOMEOWNERS:

If you have a project that you have used Rand Lumber for and are interested in being featured in an upcoming Rand newsletter, please call us at (603) 436-4438

Around the perimeter of the restaurant, 10-foot high and 14-foot wide pergolas bring the Southwest to New England. Also constructed from Douglas fir, the sturdy pergolas are stained russet brown to blend with the building's adobe look.

"I've really liked dealing with the people at Rand," says Hartman. "Every time we've had a certain need, they've been able to help us out—no matter where we are. It's great to see each restaurant come together with good, quality building materials."

We are proud to have the loyalty of the Margaritas team and to know that our products are being used to help this positive family-owned company continue with its success.

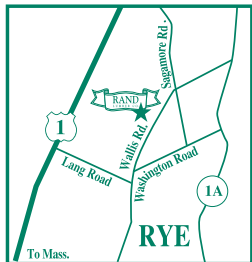

Inside, our one-by-eight rough cut was used to create beams and shelving for wait stations and other partitions.
